Making the transition from top player to top leader

New challenges can be daunting. After so many years excelling in one profession, it is not easy to start a new chapter. However, turning the page does not mean turning your back on football. It is exciting to realise that the skills you gained during an illustrious career can be applied to other aspects of the sport you love.

This is where the UEFA Executive Master for International Players (UEFA MIP) comes in. Together with our academic and football partners, we have created a programme to give former elite players the resources to keep working in the sport they have so much passion for, even once they have decided to hang up their boots.

At the heart of the UEFA MIP is the belief that the game always comes first. Throughout my years in football, I have seen many instances where, at the peak of their international and club careers, players are able to make valuable contributions to developing our beautiful game. I would like this trend to continue to grow even stronger.

What exactly can you expect from the programme? The answer is that it will provide you with the skills you need as a future leader in football administration and management. This interactive, dynamic course sets out to help you achieve your professional goals and empower you to make positive contributions to shaping football's future.

UEFA is adamant that your experience and expertise must not go to waste, and that is why we encourage you to play an influential role in our sport. As you embark on this new chapter in your life, we will be there to support you and, together, we will ensure that the game nurtures the core values that have made it the most popular sport in the world.

WHAT OUR ALUMNI THINK ABOUT THE UEFA MIP

Ricardo Kaká Leite
UEFA MIP 3

"The UEFA MIP is a great opportunity to gain a broader view of the football industry by examining a range of topics with the assistance of qualified professionals who fully understand the issues in the sport we love so much. Spending time with a group of people with different perspectives and viewpoints is a unique experience that made me think about breaking paradigms and challenge myself to always seek improvement. What makes the UEFA MIP exceptional is the quality of the people we come into contact with in different cities and countries, and everyone has the same passion for football."

Bianca Rech
UEFA MIP 1

Sporting director, women's football, FC Bayern München

"The UEFA MIP is something unique. It's not about gaining knowledge from an ordinary university, it is a whole lot more! The team spirit we experience every day with fellow participants is truly inspirational. We love football, we are teammates and you can feel that in every session. During this programme, I really developed personally and professionally. I was able to realise the importance of the skills that I had gained as a professional player and could turn them into managerial skills."

Nemanja Vidić

Nemanja Vidić
UEFA MIP 4

"I would highly recommend the UEFA MIP, especially for the excellent quality of the speakers – lecturers from various universities and professionals working in football and different businesses. This programme offers the unique opportunity to meet people from the same environment who are facing similar issues at the end of their playing careers. It's great to spend time with them and build a network together. The prestige and credibility of this master's degree is guaranteed by the partnership between UEFA, the University of Limoges and Birkbeck College of London."

Luis García
UEFA MIP 2

Chief executive officer, LG Sports Nation

"When I retired from football, I wasn't sure what to do, and coaching didn't seem to be the right choice for me. I looked for an education programme that could help me learn more about the business side of the world I already knew. From the first day, every moment of the sessions was beneficial. I met really inspiring people and shared a worthwhile experience with my fellow participants."

Luis García

Veronica Boquete
UEFA MIP 4

Professional player, ACF Fiorentina

"I would recommend the UEFA MIP because it gives you knowledge that you can't get on the pitch. Our careers as football players teach us so many things about football and sport in general, but there is another world behind the scenes and if we want to improve, we have to know about it and learn from the best. I loved the whole experience! It's a combination of academic study and research while at the same time having fun with your new team, your classmates. Every session is held in a different country, with different subjects presented by the best speakers in their field. A perfect mixture of theory and real-life practice. This kind of education is impossible to get at any other university. On top of all that, you build a huge network and strong relationships; you have the experience of a lifetime."

Geremi Njitap
UEFA MIP 4

President, FIFPro Africa

"The UEFA MIP is all about confidence, achievements and leadership! Not only did it confirm my decision to pursue a career in football management, but it also provided me with the tools I need to work at the highest level of football administration. One crucial thing I learned was the importance of working with competent people in each area. Applying this today in my work has provided me with great results and more importantly a lot of self-confidence."

Sebastian Kehl
UEFA MIP 1

Sporting director, Borussia Dortmund

"When I stopped my career as a professional player, I was looking for new challenges. The goal was to find my new professional path. I knew that I had a lot of experience as a leader in a team, but I wanted to increase my skills and knowledge and continue to develop. So the UEFA MIP was the right solution for me! This programme is tailor-made for former players, with a lot of active learning, practical exercises and real-life situations."

Youri Djorkaeff
UEFA MIP 1

Senior football advisor, FIFA

"I always knew that I wanted to work in football, even when I stopped my career as a professional player. Football administration was something that I've had a great interest in for quite some time, so the UEFA MIP was the perfect solution for me to get to know the football industry better, including how clubs and national associations work. What I appreciated most was the quality of speakers, the networking and the friendship of the other participants. It was a great opportunity to work on the qualities and skills that I knew I had in me but which would never have come to the surface without the UEFA MIP. The programme also provided us with a safe environment where we could learn and express ourselves freely without being judged constantly, as often happened during our careers as professional players."

Maxwell Scherrer
UEFA MIP 2

Former chief of football development, UEFA

"The UEFA MIP was a great opportunity for me to gain a better understanding of the football world and prepare for the future. This programme opened my eyes to topics that are a long way from the pitch, such as marketing, broadcasting and finance. It also gave me an overview of the regulations and the sports administration ecosystem."

Simon Rolfes
UEFA MIP 1

Managing director of sport, Bayer 04 Leverkusen

"This course offers an ideal transition from an active playing career to the next level in professional football. The UEFA MIP covers the entire spectrum of modern football management. You dive straight in to the inner workings of the business off the pitch. The UEFA MIP has top-class speakers from clubs, companies and universities, and impresses with its exceptional diversity. The programme offers an excellent connection between theory and practice. World-class footballers come together for the UEFA MIP, and all want to continue at the top level in their future professional careers. The networking possibilities are outstanding. Through the UEFA MIP programme, I have made countless contacts that are now invaluable to me in my role at Bayer 04 Leverkusen."

Jason Roberts
UEFA MIP 1

Director of development, CONCACAF

"I would recommend the UEFA MIP because it gives you access to an extremely high level of education, offers amazing insight into the internal mechanisms of football and provides you with an incredible network of individuals who are experiencing a similar transition from the pitch to the business side of our sport. My experience was that I was challenged by the robust educational requirements and assessments; this motivated me to plan my journey into football administration. I left the course with lifelong friends who continue to play an active role in my personal growth. What is unique about the UEFA MIP course is that you connect with colleagues who share a range of emotions towards education, employment and career ambitions."

Stiliyan Petrov
UEFA MIP 2

"The UEFA MIP was an exciting opportunity to turn a page in my career and enter a brand new field in football administration. It taught me that planning, analysis and observation were the key skills I had to master. It also helped me to realise how important education and knowledge are and that without networking I could not succeed, because working with the right people is essential. The UEFA MIP made me more authoritative and independent and helped me create a plan for my future. The most important thing was the friendships that I've made with very reliable, hard-working people."

Former participants

Former international players who have competed at the highest level on the pitch have a lot to offer to football administration. Players who show leadership, discipline, commitment and vision on the field can shape the mood of the rest of their team. The UEFA MIP moulds these qualities into the skills of a successful manager.

Designed for former international players

This programme combines the technical skills gained by experienced players with the knowledge required to occupy senior positions in football organisations.

The UEFA MIP considers participants' situations at the end of their sporting careers and addresses the main challenges that top executives currently face. This approach facilitates smooth, successful transitions from top player to top leader.

Programme overview

An international programme for international participants.

The UEFA MIP is tailored to match each participant's interests and profile. It comprises eight week-long sessions, each of which deals with a different aspect of football administration and management. Delivered in English, the sessions are held over a period of 20 months.

Those who do not work in a sports organisation undertake a three-month work placement during the course to gain practical experience.

Successful participants are awarded an executive master's degree by the University of Limoges, France.

(17 October 2025, UEFA HQ, Nyon, Switzerland)

Session 1

Professional football landscape
16–20 October 2023, UEFA HQ, Nyon

As a former international player, you have a clear vision about how football works, on and around the pitch. But you probably need to strengthen your knowledge about what goes on behind the scenes. This first session provides a presentation of the sports sector in general and the professional football landscape in particular. Who are the different stakeholders in the sector? What are the specific features of sports economics and the football industry compared to general economic sectors? Through academic and professional presentations, workshops and debates, you will be afforded a comprehensive insight into the features and complexity of the football ecosystem. This first session will also help you identify how to appreciate and use your legitimacy and skills in order to become a top manager.

Learning objectives:

- Draw up an overview of the stakeholders in the sports sector and professional football
- Introduce the general institutional, legal and economic frameworks of the European professional sports system
- Underline the characteristics and specific features of the economics of team sports
- Highlight key skills that can be mobilised to transition from a top player to a top leader

Session 2

Management and leadership
5–9 February 2024, Paris

Some of the skills that you have acquired in your playing career are directly transferable, while others will need supplementing. Your task is to apply these skills to a clearly defined, coherent project that takes into account the history, culture and values of the organisation for which you work. During this session you will learn from several managers with sports and business backgrounds. Various activities will also help you reflect on what kind of leader you would like to become.

Learning objectives:

- Understand the role of the manager and their key skills
- Learn about the importance of a clearly defined strategy for a sporting organisation and how to implement it
- Study simple, practical tools for defining projects
- Discover your leadership style

Session 3

Competitions and leagues
13–17 May 2024, Lisbon

The essence of sport is competition. The objective of sporting tournaments, leagues and competitions is to determine the champion team or individual. This session addresses the challenges of finding the most effective way to organise football competitions in all their variety and complexity. The debate around how the UEFA Champions League competition should be structured in the 2024–2027 cycle illustrates this point very clearly. Explanations are given of the theoretical principles underlying effective competition design, such as the need to maintain competitive balance, financial stability and the integrity of competitions. The practical application of these principles is illustrated with the use of multiple case studies of real-world football competitions.

Learning objectives:

- Understand the key principles informing the successful design of club and national team competitions
- Understand the key regulatory tools available to competition organisers, e.g. salary caps, luxury tax, financial fair play systems, etc.
- Learn the key operating principles of labour markets in football related to the retain and transfer systems, and the role of clubs, agents and regulators such as FIFA in this system
- Explore the specific dynamics of women's football competitions as a critical growth sector in the football ecosystem

Session 4

Managers in action
9–13 September 2024, Madrid

This session will help participants understand the different kinds of organisations that exist in football administration today. Based on this information, they should then be able to analyse decision-making processes. The main content of this session concerns relationships between people. Participants will be introduced to a variety of important topics in order to help them become great managers: there is a clear definition of the objectives, including the importance of selecting and motivating an effective team. Additionally, participants will practice the skills required for successful negotiation and communication.

Learning objectives:

- Examine the administrative organisation of clubs and federations
- Understand the decision-making processes in sports organisations
- Outline basic financial concepts
- Explain the roles and skills of different stakeholders in a football organisation

Session 5

Stadium management and sporting direction

9–13 December 2024, Dortmund

This session will focus on two key considerations. The first is the importance of stadium and operations management in the life cycle of clubs. Stadiums are a fundamental asset for clubs. The economic model and the clubs' ability to turn stadiums into profit centres will be studied in detail. There will also be insights into operations management, notably through observing the inner workings of a UEFA club competition match. The second consideration is the key topic of sports talent management. Talent identification and player development and valuation are also a major part of clubs' strategies. Specific attention will be paid to the role and skills of clubs' sporting and technical directors.

Learning objectives:

- Present the general business model of professional football clubs and identify the key pillars
- Demonstrate the role and importance of stadiums and events in a club's development
- Identify the different stakeholders involved in sports talent management
- Understand the basic principles of scouting and recruitment

Session 6

Commercial and strategic marketing

2–7 February 2025, London

The goal of marketing is to identify and satisfy consumer needs through delivering compelling products and services in a unique and profitable way. In sports, we market to fans and commercial partners alike; this requires a broad set of strategic skills in order to succeed in a highly competitive, rapidly evolving marketplace. We compete with other sports as well as with other forms of entertainment.

Learning objectives:

- Build a strong brand strategy to guide the offering, communications, pricing and distribution
- Develop a marketing plan based on consumer insights, competitive analysis, understanding the market, segmentation and targeting
- Understand how to build a strong proposition in key revenue-driving verticals: broadcast rights, sponsorship and licensing, digital fan engagement and direct-to-consumer
- Develop cut-through communications to promote your brand and offering while building and protecting your property's reputation

Session 7

North American leagues and clubs

7–11 April 2025, Miami

This session covers an alternative sports model that has its own history and culture. The study of this model will allow you to broaden your managerial horizons and acquire new tools for success. It also encourages creative thinking about the key factors in the success of a league or club, including the implementation of regulatory tools. Although the consumption of American culture and sport is significantly different to European consumption, this session will help you identify some very practical tools that could be implemented in European football in order to increase its economic and social value.

Learning objectives:

- Offer a non-European perspective from outside Europe, with the illustration of a very different but very prosperous model
- Demonstrate that both the European and North American models are tailored to their history and environment
- Illustrate the need for sports models to be regulated
- Describe the policies implemented to promote gender equality and fight discrimination

Session 8

Football's global challenges

2–6 June 2025, Rio

Football is multifaceted: it is simultaneously a game, a sport, an economic sector and a highly globalised industry. After a strong focus on the European context and the North American model of sport, this final session visits South America to offer a comprehensive insight into the globalised nature of football and its challenges. Based on a series of presentations and interactive workshops, this final session will give participants the opportunity to apply what they have learned throughout the programme.

Learning objectives:

- Understand the global nature of the football industry and its current and future challenges
- Learn more about the South American football market and its connections to Europe
- Study different organisational models
- Apply the programme's key learning points

Graduation ceremony

UEFA HQ, Nyon
17 October 2025

Assessment

Continuous assessment

Active participation, case studies, group work and assignments will be assessed throughout the various sessions.

UEFA MIP report

During the programme, participants will be required to produce a managerial analysis of a football-related issue using the knowledge they have acquired. Participants will have to present and defend their UEFA MIP report during a viva voce.

Work report

Participants will produce a report related to a project they have worked on, either through their professional commitments or during a 12-week work placement (for those not already working at a sports organisation).

Mentoring

You will be assigned a mentor who will support you throughout the programme. Your mentor can answer questions on the sessions and assignments, help you build a professional project, advise on work placements and suggest reading.

Application process

1. WHO CAN APPLY?

To be eligible for this executive master's programme, you must meet all the following criteria:

Academic partners

The UEFA MIP is the ultimate academic programme in sports management for former international professional footballers. The programme has been constructed on the building blocks of experience and successful long-term cooperation and brings together the best teaching staff and speakers. The UEFA MIP is delivered by UEFA Academy and two academic institutions: the Centre for Sports Law and Economics (CDES) at the University of Limoges in France and the Birkbeck Sport Business Centre at the University of London.

CDES

Founded in 1978, CDES operates with an interdisciplinary logic, combining the academic disciplines of law and economics as they apply to the sports industries. While remaining faithful to its roots and academic calling, CDES has developed many commercial research and consultancy activities (studies and audits in the fields of sports law, economics and management) as well as training courses and conferences, master's degrees (law, economics and management of sport; professional sports club management; stadium management; executive master for former international players) and publications (Jurisport, a sports law and economics review).

BIRKBECK

Founded in 1823 as a college of the University of London, Birkbeck is a world-class research and teaching institution, a vibrant centre of academic excellence and London's only specialist provider of evening higher education. The Sport Business Centre brings together experts in sport management to deliver high quality research, teaching and consultancy to organisations involved in the business of sport. It offers a portfolio of postgraduate sport management programmes based around its flagship MSc Sport Management & the Business of Football. Historically, the Sport Business Centre has had particular research strength in the area of the corporate governance of the sport industry, with a particular focus on the football sector.

UEFA ACADEMY

Building on the professional excellence of UEFA throughout its history and the learning initiatives created within UEFA over the last decade, UEFA Academy seeks to inspire the education of individuals and organisations in order to continuously elevate the sport of football.

UEFA Academy anticipates and addresses learning needs in the European football sector and offers expertise in the education of football executives to support individuals and organisations in their development plans. Working in close cooperation with leading professional and academic experts, UEFA Academy is committed to constantly improving and adapting its activities and programmes through innovation in its learning formats, methodologies and content.
